the Business Situation. THE NEW GOVERNMENT BOND ISSUE

And Its Effect-The Necessity for the Lone a Misfortune-Mr. Cleveland's Slowness Criticised-Low Prices of Wheat and Corn.

secial Correspondence of the Intelligence New York, Nov. 17 .- Although the immediate effect of the bond issue was a realization of profits made in anticipation of the event itself, its ultimate effect will be to strengthen confidence both at home and abroad. Nobody contradicts the fact that the necessity of the loan is a misfortune; but the determination of the government to protect the national credit by the best possible expedient, until the deeper causes for distrust of our currency system can be remedied, is the strongest sort of argument for confidence. Mr. Cleveland has been lavish enough in promises to this end; yet his action in the matter has enc; yet his action in the matter has not been prompt enough to meet the preferences of the banking community. Europe, howeves, can now reat assured that our currency will be maintained upon a gold basis, and this will do much towards overcoming the prejudice of foreign holders, who have very naturally feared that interest and principal of our requisities of our requirement. of our securities of our money might some day become payable only in de-based money. As for business interests, sufficient time has not yet elapsed to actually feel the results of the late actually leel the results of the rate election. Everybody now believes that silverism, populism and tariff agitation are questions of the past; or at least that the country is assured of a rest from such disturbances for some time to come. Industry will thus receive encouragement towards renewed exertion, and while from the patter of the case. and while from the nature of the case recovery must be slow, it will be certain and vasily more substantial than could have been possible except for the popular verdict of November 6. One of the most satisfactory features of the times is the universal version distimes is the universal aversion dis-

In some quarters there is a disposition to exaggerate the effects of low prices for wheat and cotton upon the agricultural interests. It is overlooked agricultural interests. It is overlooked that both wheat and cotton can be raised much more cheaply than formerly, and that it cost less to handle and transport these articles than ever before. In some portions of the south cotton can be grown probably with profit even at the present depressed price, and in other sections where low prices press hard some compensation is lad from better fertilizers and better methods of cultivation. Again, we have methods of cultivation. Again, we have-a great abundance of these low priced commodities, which brings their aggre-gate value up to normal volume. Con-sumers are benefited by these low prices, and have more to spend in other directions. About 50 000 000 husbale of prices, and have more to spend in other directions. About 50,000,000 bushels of wheat have already been fed to cattle with advantage, not wasted, and good authorities estimate that as much again will be used before the next crop. When all these and other offsets are considered, it will be seen that the present condition of the American farmer, while bad enough, is not quite so wretched as many would have us believe. Through all these long months of panic and distress we have had fewer complaints from the farming than from the manufacturing districts; and as the farmers in common with others are farmers in common with others are sharing the ceenpened cost of living, we cannot believe that they are worse off than other divisions of labor.

As for the industrial situation, that is hopeful. Our textile mills are not fally called and the statement of the control of the c

As for the industrial situation, that is hopful. Our textile mills are not fully employed, but they are turning out a larger product at better profits than six months ago. The boot and shoe trade has been very active in low-priced goods for several months. The iron trade revives very slowly, still there is an unusual degree of confidence in the future, and many of the western establishments which are most favorably circumstanced—as to locality and plant are running close to their full capacity. The stock exchange is not blind to all these factors. Investors show general confidence in the future, and while often not able to buy, stubbornly refuse to sell; in fact, the tenacity with which stocks and bonds are held is unusual. Money is plentiful and easily obtained for enterprises of merit; but railroad stocks and bonds are naturally neglected while earnings continues of poor. Ester husiness howbut railroad stocks and bonds are naturally neglected while earnings continue so poor. Better business, however, will soon result in inprovement in this respect; hence railroad shares will Bradstreet's. The Wool Trade. The wool market is quiet, but the whole situation is better and the prospect encouraging. The mills are fairly well employed, and there is quite a consumption of wool from week to week. The larger manufacturers are fairly stocked with wool and are not anticipating their wants. Since the election, however, there has been an increased demand, but purely for immediate use. Both buyers and sellers have more faith in the situation and feel that prices are Both buyers and selfers nave more rath in the situation and feel that prices are as low as they will be. Fleece wools still feel the competition of Australian grades, and are only steady at 18 a19c for XX and above Ohio. Delaine fleeces continue quiet, with \(\frac{1}{2}\) and \(\frac{3}{2}\) bloods still slow. Territory grades are in better request, with prices very steady. Australian wools are meeting with a fair demand at steady prices. Carpet wools are very quiet.

THE VICTORY.

Some Good Advice to the Republicans Elected to the Logislature. To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Str:-After almost a quarter of a century the Republicans gain a victory in tury the Republicans gain a victory in this state out of which they cannot be cheated. They are jubilant, of course, but they must use the victory so that permanent results shall be obtained.

Legislation must be in the interests of the people and not especially for the party. Many young men are elected, some of whom were nominated with no hope of their election, but simply that they might "get before the people," now they are conspicuously "before the people," Too many when elected feel that they must earn their money by the introduction and passage of at least one bill which when passed frequently turns out an "Irish bull."

The school law and road are usually bill which when passed frequently turns out an "Irish bull."

The school law and road are usually the first point to attack for the tyro. The United States senator must be elected, the offices of both houses must be filled; the state re-districted, not gerrymandered. The folly of a gerrymander is seen in Illingis, where the Democrats arranged, as they believed, so that the Republicans could not get a United States senator for years, and at the election the Republicans carry a three-fourths majority in both houses of the legislature and all the congressmen, with perhaps one exception.

You cannot legislate to keep down the people by placing party before the interests of the country.

Therecent victory in this state means that thousands of Democrats voted the Republican ticket to rebuke their own party for vicious state and national legislation, for placing personal and party interest before that of the country. These men are as much Democrats today as ever. But if the Republican party by a dignified course this winter in the legislature, by economic appropriations, by a judicious re-districting of the state, by no hasty or radical changes of laws, prove themselves worthy, which they will do; at least one-half of the Democrats who voted with the Republicans this fall will remain permanently in the Republican party; and thus this will be a real Republican victory and not a Democratic rebuke.
